Dear James.

I have read of your case with great interest, and I feel I must write and let you know that I am with you 100%.

Yours is not just a case of breaking a age old rule or anything else they wish to call it by, but you are fighting for a principle and I say more power to you.

What I can't understand is why you are left to fight it alone, I only wish I were there to tell those selfrighteous fools just exactly what they are.

This problem is not just confined to America it is a world wide one to-day.

You know as I do that God created this earth, for all manner of men, and he didn't make any distinction regarding colour. If God had wanted it so He would have stated it so.

Do not fear your enemies, but place your entire faith in God, and He will endow you with the strength to stand on your own two feet and face any adversity because God is greater than all men combined, and as I have said before and I say to you right well triumph over might;

I am not religious in mans sense of religion but; I do place my sincere faith in God because I have found that God never lets you down, & man well, even friends drift away and find new ones, but God never takes lightly mans sincerity.

I can say this in all things we give to Him, he gives to us something in return, because through my faith; in return I have been blessed, and you will be also, and mark my words well

Sincerely
R. Deal.
